

VIET NAM NATIONAL UNIVERSITY HO CHI MINH CITY
UNIVERSITY OF ECONOMICS AND LAW

PROPOSAL FOR COLLABORATION

Warm greetings from the University of Economics and Law (UEL), Vietnam National University, Ho Chi Minh City.

On behalf of UEL, we are honored to initiate this communication to explore potential avenues of comprehensive partnership between our institutions, building upon our mutual aspirations for global engagement, impactful research, and academic innovation. We highly value your reputation as one of the world's leading universities and see great synergy with UEL's commitment to internationalization and excellence.

Proposed Collaborative Areas

1. Academic Networking and Community Engagement

- Establishing a robust network between UEL and your academic, administrative, and alumni communities, including government sector partners, to foster strategic cooperation and expand professional networks.

2. Faculty and Student Exchange

- Facilitating semester-based and short-term exchanges of both students and faculty members—with arrangements for credit transfer—to enrich academic experiences and promote cross-cultural understanding.

- Welcoming your students to join UEL's summer camps, study tours, and co-working sessions, with UEL committed to ensuring a supportive environment and memorable experience for all participants.

- Organizing faculty exchange and visiting scholar programs, enabling both institutions' staff to teach, conduct research, and participate in seminars on-site or virtually.

3. Study Tours, Internships, and Practical Training

- Co-hosting study tours and short-term programs where students can engage in coursework, corporate internships, or site visits in Vietnam and partner universities.
- Offering opportunities for students to intern with government and enterprise partners through coordinated programs such as CO-OP or research internships.
- Coordinating logistics (accommodation, local orientation, company placements, and cultural exchanges) to ensure effective implementation of these programs.

4. Joint Curriculum and Degree Programs

- Developing joint undergraduate (2+2, 3+1) and graduate programs (double degree or linked Master's programs such as MBA, LLM), allowing students to study at both institutions and gain international qualifications.
- Designing co-supervision schemes for PhD candidates, facilitating shared research endeavors, and fostering scholarly ties.

5. Collaborative Research and Conferences

- Initiating joint research projects in key areas such as international law, digital economy, ESG, public policy, and sustainable development, and seeking external funding together.
- Hosting regular joint academic conferences, workshops, and public lectures to amplify our collective impact on the academic community and society.

6. Media, Branding, and Cultural Exchange

- Utilizing shared events, student testimonials, and visual media to highlight the vibrancy and diversity of both campuses, promoting further international recruitment and visibility.

Proposal for future collaboration

UEL would be delighted to welcome your delegation to Vietnam for a study tour or initiate joint programs virtually or in person. Moreover, we invite your faculty and students to participate in upcoming exchange and internship programs at UEL, and look forward to sending our students to your institution, both for course credits and research experiences.

To formalize and detail our collaboration, we propose:

- Signing a Memorandum of Understanding as a framework for these initiatives;
- Scheduling an online meeting to discuss logistics and program implementation in greater depth;
- Coordinating mutual visits in conjunction with your institutional schedule.

Please find attached additional information about UEL's programs and our international student experiences. Should you require further details, we are happy to provide supplementary materials or references.

We hope that this proposal marks the beginning of a fruitful partnership, advancing the educational mission and global impact of both institutions. We look forward to your positive response and to discussing next steps./.
