TRANSFORMATIVE GLOBAL PROJECTS AND CAPACITY-BUILDING PARTNERSHIPS

Brock University actively engages in international development initiatives that deliver tangible results and foster long-term impact. Through collaborative, capacity-building partnerships, we work with institutions worldwide — from Canada to the UK, Europe, and the Caribbean — to strengthen education systems and promote regional growth. Our projects provide educators with learning opportunities, mentoring, and essential resources to create inclusive and effective school environments. These initiatives directly benefit students, teachers, teaching assistants, and school leaders by enhancing teaching practices and improving learning outcomes.

Extending Brock's Global Reach Through Academics Without Borders.

Through partnerships facilitated by Academics Without Borders (AWB), Brock researchers are helping strengthen higher education and research capacity in low- and middle-income countries while building meaningful global collaborations. In Uganda, Assistant Professor of Health Sciences Dr. Asif Khowaja worked with Mbarara University of Science and Technology on the sHEROES project, equipping students, health administrators and health-care professionals, particularly women, with critical skills in health economics and data analysis to support evidence-based decision-making on sepsis policy. In Ghana, Dr. Jill Grose, former Director of Brock University's Centre for Pedagogical Innovation, delivered the first-ever Instructional Skills Workshop at the University of Business and Integrated Development Studies (UBIDS), training faculty members who are now positioned to lead and expand the program across their institution. Together, these initiatives demonstrate how Brock scholars leverage their expertise to support capacity-building abroad while fostering international partnerships, knowledge exchange and new perspectives that enrich teaching, research and community impact at Brock.
